TALKS TO THE TRADE

No. 2

It is often easier to sell an old book than a new one, especially if the old one has all the freshness of the present day, combined with an up-to-date setting. For years our travellers have pleaded for a new edition of "The Birds' Christmas Carol." Their claim has been that while there is no falling off in the sale of the book, which has been large and steady for these many years, the Trade all over the country have continually asked why we did not bring out a modern edition. This year we have done so. Our reasons are as follows:

A check list of Mrs. Wiggin's books likely to sell at Christmas time:

Rebecca
New Chronicles of Rebecca
Penelope's Experiences
Story of Patsy
Timothy's Quest
Mother Carey's Chickens
Old Peabody Pew
A Child's Journey With Dickens

NOTE:—This last volume has not yet been through a holiday season. It is for adults.

- (1) The book is destined to live as a permanent American classic for children.
- (2) Each generation must have it.
- (3) Those youngsters who were brought up on it are now parents, many of them, and they are ready to buy it for their children for sentimental reasons, as well as for the pleasure Mrs. Wiggin's best story will afford.
- (4) We have been able by using the two-color process to equip the volume with thirty-two colored illustrations and yet keep the price down to one dollar, allowing you your regular discount of 33½% or better.
- (5) The trade has asked for it.

Many reprints in holiday form are much more expensive than the original editions; in fact most holiday leaders range from $2.00 to $3.00 or more but the Carol can be sold at $1.00, the most popular of all prices.

Your clerks will find it an easy matter to sell it, so why not make it one of your leaders and invest in a volume that is bound to show quick and satisfactory returns.

NEW BOOKS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS*THE YOUNG WOODSMEN; or Running Down the Squawtooth Gang

By Hugh Pendexter

The third volume of the successful Camp and Trail Series, telling of the further adventures of Stanley Malcolm and Bub Thomas among the lumbermen in the Maine woods.

12mo. Illustrated by Charles Copeland. $1.20 net; by mail $1.35.

THE YOUNG FISHERMEN; or The King of Smuggler's Island

By Hugh Pendexter

The first volume of a new series of books for boys, entitled "Along the Coast Series." It narrates the adventures of two boys among the fishermen along the coast of Maine. One of the boys, Sidney Luce, is himself a fisherman, and the other, Jeff Pride, is a young lumberman who by a piece of good fortune helps Sidney out of a tight place and joins forces with him. The story introduces a notable character in the person of Cap'n Twink, a retired shipmaster, who proves an effective friend to the two boys in their struggles with the Jim Cove gang, a band of marauders led by the redoubtable Sampson Bass.

12mo. Illustrated by Charles Copeland. $1.20 net; by mail $1.35.

BARRY WYNN. The Adventures of a Page Boy in the United States Congress

By George Barton

A new departure in books for boys—the story of a thoroughly boyish boy in the midst of events and scenes which thrill the boy reader because of their very power to render the workings of the national government familiar.

12mo. Illustrated by John Huybers. $1.20 net; by mail $1.35.

FRED SPENCER, REPORTER

By Henry M. Neely

Fred Spencer is a young telegraph operator of seventeen, in the office of The Morning Call, a great city daily. A big "story" comes over the wire about the disappearance of the young heir of a large shipowner, who may arrive on a certain steamer. No one can get on board the steamer, but Fred sees a chance to do so with the help of his friend Paddy O'Shea O'Day, who is full of proverbial Irish humor and shrewdness. Promised promotion if he succeeds he has many thrilling adventures in his new career.

12mo. Illustrated by A. A. Blum. $1.20 net; by mail $1.35.

THE LUCKY CHANCE. The Story of a Mine

By M. W. Loraine

A capital story for boys, depicting the actual conditions in a Western silver mine and the struggle between two boys and some marauders, Mexican and otherwise, culminating in a most exciting adventure at the mine itself.

12mo. Illustrated by Haydon Jones. $1.20 net; by mail $1.35.

IN SEARCH OF SMITH

By John Mackie

A virile, vigorous story of Northern Australia, which tells of the experience of a sturdy young fellow with aborigines in the never-never country that flanks the Gulf of Carpentaria, "the Ultima Thule" of civilization. Besides Smith, "the eccentric and adventurous," the expedition includes an ex-cavalryman "of the best fighting quality, as ready with his fists as with his tongue;" another old campaigner, Sir Donald Taylor, "no stranger to scorching suns and unluxurious methods of life," and an Australian amazon aged eighteen who enters the story as a fair duellist armed with a stock-whip with which she vanquishes a fifteen-foot python.

12mo. 22 Illustrations by R. Caton Woodville. $1.50 postpaid.

ON FOREIGN SERVICE; or the Santa Cruz RevolutionBy Staff-Surgeon T. T.
Jeans of the British Navy

A masterpiece of naval writing, centering around a South American revolution in which an Englishman takes a prominent part. A brother of the revolutionist leader is a sub-lieutenant on one of two British cruisers ordered abroad to watch the progress of the revolt, and the adventures of the two are related with rare dramatic force.

12mo. Illustrated by W. Rainey, R. I., with a wrapper in full color. $1.50 postpaid.

A COUNTESS FROM CANADA

By Bessie Marchant

A story, by one of the greatest present-day writers for girls, which will satisfy every girl's wholesome love of the romantic and give her a bright picture of heroism in the Hudson's Bay country.

12mo. Illustrated by Cyrus Cuneo. $1.50 postpaid.

The Upas Tree

A Christmas Story for All the Year Round

By FLORENCE L. BARCLAY

The story deals with a successful author—a man, young and attractive, whose absorption in his work leads him into unconscious selfishness towards his devoted wife. The Upas Tree symbolises this selfishness. The book has a strong love interest and contains many tender passages. It is a story of rare charm, powerful in conception, compelling in narrative, wholesome in effect.

THE JOYOUS ADVENTURES OF ARISTIDE PUJOL. By WILLIAM J. LOCKE, author of "The Glory of Clementina," "The Beloved Vagabond," "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," etc. With 24 illustrations by Alec Ball. 12mo. Cloth, $1.30 net. Postage, 12 cents. These joyous adventures form a climax to Mr. Locke's novels of diverting Gallic experiences, with their unalloyed happiness and their rich-brown despairs. Aristide Pujol, that Protean son of Provence, is a most attractive personality. With breathless interest we follow him through a series of engrossing adventures. He is a lovable, tender-hearted gasconading gamin of a creature, full of aplomb in the most embarrassing situations, and honourable according to his lights. With a chuckle and a sigh of regret we close the book on Aristide's last adventure—that of matrimony.

THE FACE OF AIR. By GEORGE L. KNAPP. 12mo. Cloth, $1.00 net. Postage, 10 cents. A ship, apparently crewless and passengerless—the Nancy Hanks—is the "heroine" of this story. Like most heroines, she proves difficult of comprehension to man, and fear, excitement, murder, take place all around and about her while she calmly proceeds upon her way, with the mystery deepening day by day.

SUNSHINE SKETCHES. By STEPHEN LEACOCK, author of "Literary Lapses," "Nonsense Novels," etc. Colored Frontispiece. 12mo. Cloth, $1.25 net. Postage, 12 cents. The setting of these stories is a small Canadian town. The scenes vary in the different tales, but the same characters re-appear throughout, all of them invested with the originality and humor that is characteristic of Mr. Leacock's writings.

PANSY MEARES. By HORACE W. C. NEWTE, author of "The Socialist Countess," "The Ealing Miracle," etc. 12mo. Cloth, $1.30 net. Postage, 12 cents. The author takes as the heroine of this realistic novel a simple country girl of great beauty, who, to escape from an undesirable step-father and the boredom of country life, makes her way to London and passes through all the phases of hardship that await the penniless and unsophisticated young woman in a great city.

AT THE SIGN OF THE REINE PEDAUQUE. By ANATOLE FRANCE. A translation by Mrs. Wilfrid Jackson. With an introduction by William J. Locke. 8vo. $1.75 net. Postage, 15 cents. This novel comes more or less midway in the Chronological list of Anatole France's works. It thus marks the flood-tide of his genius, when his imaginative power at its brightest came into conjunction with the full ripeness of his scholarship. It depicts the adventures of the most beloved of his characters—Maitre Jérôme Coignard. He is a scapegrace, and all the same time a scholar, a mocking philosopher and an exquisite artist.

AN AMERICAN GIRL AT THE DURBAR. By SHELLAND BRADLEY, author of "An American Girl in India," etc. Cloth, $1.25 net. Postage, 12 cents. This is the first novel to contain a proper account of that brilliant ceremony—the Durbar. The author was present at this wonderful event and has been able to visualize for us its many unusual features. The narrative itself is charming and the pen pictures of India are excellently done.

A tale of Kansas and the girl who made good

The SODDY

By SARAH COMSTOCK

¶ This is a big romantic story of the irrigation country. The "soddy" is the little sod house of the Western wilderness, and it is about this that the action revolves.

¶ The story shows Dexter Hayden, a young Easterner, "proving up" in the West.

¶ There's a girl too. It takes a girl to make a story complete. And she is a very important girl. If blue-eyed, plucky Terry had said to you: "We'll stay by the land—never mind the hardships—we'll make good"—you would have stayed. It took grit to do what she did.

¶ Then there's an enemy. (An enemy in the plot is like flour in the gravy; it is needed to make it thicken.) He is a scoundrel promoter, jealous of Hayden's irrigation scheme. You will admire him. He is cast for the part he plays.

¶ When he takes hold, he mixes things up. Just Out. Net, $1.30

The Rich Mrs. Burgoyne

By
KATHLEEN NORRIS

A new novel by the favorite author of "Mother," with the same fine appeal, and one that will take its place beside that book as the best of the year for wholesomeness and sincerity of purpose. The story tells of the social regeneration of a small California town through the advent of a presumably wealthy stranger—The Rich Mrs. Burgoyne.

London Lavender

By
E. V. LUCAS

A novel with the quaint and indescribable literary charm which pervades all the work of the popular author of "Over Bermeton's," "Mr. Ingleside," etc.

"London Lavender" is a particularly beautiful story.

We meet again several of the fine characters with whom Mr. Lucas has already made us acquainted, besides others equally interesting and entertaining. The intimate sketches of various phases of London life—visits to the Derby, Zoo, The National Gallery—are delightfully chronicled and woven into a novel as attractive as it is unusual.

Deering of Deal

By
LATTA GRISWOLD

"Deering of Deal, or The Spirit of the School" is the kind of a story which will keep boys up late at night to finish. Tony Deering, the hero, one of the most popular fellows that Deal School has ever produced is just good enough and just bad enough to appeal to every lad from twelve to twenty, and to make some of the lads' fathers brighten up a bit, too, on reading this capital book of school-day experiences.

My Love and I

By
MARTIN REDFIELD

An Intimate Confession of a Man's Life. Contrary to the general in anonymous novels, even the publishers do not know who the author of this remarkable book is. This exceptional story deals with a triangle of artistic temperaments and tells, with powerful reality, the struggle of a heart against the subtler problems of love and a final solution not usually found in fiction.

"Don't Give" Up the Ship

By
CHARLES S WOOD

A book that parents will be glad to put in their boys' hands. It is a fine tale of adventure—of ships and sailors and battles—hardships and rewards—full of excitement and bound to wake a desire to know more of the stirring history of their country.

It is with Perry's famous victory on Lake Erie as the center of interest that Mr. Wood has written this thrilling story of the War of 1812.

POST OFFICE BLUE LAWS.

POSSIBLY a fitting text for a secular sermon on postal absurdities might be found in King Rehoboam's threat to his unhappy people, I Kings, XII., 10: "My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins"—in view of the extraordinary extreme to which the present Congress has developed the red tape interference with the business of periodical publishing, against which there was so much protest in the days of Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madden. The Post Office Department is, in fact, itself embarrassed by the difficulties in which it is placed, in common with periodical publishers, by the drastic yet uncertain provisions of the new law, as well as by the herculean task which has been laid upon it of preparing for the parcels post system within the short space of four months. It should be said to its credit that it is standing up to its work in the best spirit, and with excellent efficiency.

The several "riders" in the post office appropriation act require that every periodical, except "religious, fraternal, temperance, scientific or similar publications," shall "file with the Postmaster-General and with the postmaster at the office at which said publication is entered," "sworn statements, setting forth the names of the editor and managing editor, publisher, business managers and owners," and if owned by a corporation, the name and address of each stockholder owning more than one per cent. of stock, as well as security holders, so far as known; and in the case of dailies, a statement of the average circulation, or number of paid subscribers for the six months preceding the first of October and the first of April, at which date the statements are to be filed, which affidavit shall be published in the periodical in the second issue after its date; and that any editorial or other article for which a valuable consideration is paid or promised, shall be marked "advertisement," on pain of penalty of $50 to $500 against the editor or publisher. The Post Office Department prepared and supplied such blanks promptly, but though dated September 20, receipt on the last day of September made it difficult, if not impossible, to file the statement as required literally on the first day of October.

As is usually the case with "riders," these provisions are so loosely drawn as to be incongruous and indeterminable. In respect to "paid subscribers," the Attorney-General has held, in an elaborate opinion, dated September 26, that this phrase covers sales through newsdealers. But is the Outlook or Independent a religious, or the Scientific American a scientific periodical within the meaning of the law? The law specifies "every" periodical as within its application, but by requiring that it shall be filed "at the post office at which said publication is entered," it practically confines the obligation to periodicals entered as second-class matter. It was doubtless intended to exclude from second-class privileges periodicals which failed to file the affidavit; but, as a matter of fact, it excludes them entirely from the mails, as in the case of periodicals carrying lottery and fraudulent advertisements. The publisher who prefers not to comply with the law would seem thus to have the alternative of withdrawing his publication from second-class entry. There is no particular objection on the part of most journals, certainly not of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, to giving the information as to responsible editors, though it should be said that the enforcement of this rule is in line with foreign press censorship and not with the American free press. The publication of the names of stockholders may be made quite ineffective by the customary use of dummies. It is well known in financial circles that J. P. Morgan, for instance, has almost no stock standing in his name on the books of many a corporation which he controls. It is not the business of Congress to make such regulations; and the purpose which they have, so far as it is good, may easily be evaded.

The publication as reading matter of material which is really advertisement is a reprehensible practice of many American journals, but again it is not the business of Congress to remedy this evil, unless under the police theory of the Post Office that such misleading works fraud upon the public. The Post Office organization has developed into a great detective agency, which has accomplished many good results, to be sure, but not without question as to the advisability and lawfulness of the exercise of such powers.

A good deal of fuss has been made over an interview with Third Assistant Postmaster-General Britt, to the effect that book reviews, based on free copies, might be classed as advertisements under this law. The Post Office Department is not, we take it, to be entrapped into any such reductio ad absurdum. To cite our own case, the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY's record of new books is based chiefly, both in its entry and descriptive notes, on copies supplied by the publishers. There is no charge, directly or indirectly, for either the entry or the descriptive note, and in the case of books too expensive or too limited for such supply, these are indeed based on copies loaned. Reputable journals, in fact, do not accept review copies with any obligation to print either a favorable notice or any notice at all. It would indeed be absolutely misleading to mark such notices "advertisement," and thus give the false impression that the notices were supplied by the publisher. The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY goes even further, and has never sold a copy of a book sent to it for review, but distributes such gratuitously among its staff. The same is to be said of the notices of the plays in the dramatic columns of a periodical for which facilities are afforded by free entrance to the theatre. Where, on the other hand, a copy of a valuable work is obtained on the promise that a favorable reading-matter article will be printed, that is purely a question of bargain and sale, and such a notice should be labeled "advertisement" as a matter of honesty, though it is scarcely the business of the Congress of the United States to enforce that kind of honesty by this kind of law.

In short, Congress has made the unfortunate mistake of applying the imaginary code of Connecticut Blue Laws in the interest of honesty and general morals to the business of periodical publishing, with which it has no particular reason to meddle. Several of the purposes aimed at in the law are doubtless good, but they are not to be remedied by drastic legislation on the part of the national legislature.

LONDON LETTER.

Special Correspondence to The Publishers' Weekly.

LONDON, September 20, 1912.

THE English autumn publishing season has arrived with a tumble this year, thanks, in a measure, to the fact that we have had a miserable summer of wet, the rain raining every day. That fact has pushed forward the book season. The wet kept the people indoors and from going to the country and the seaside on holiday bent, with the result that they took to reading. Their demand for books from the libraries and the shops communicated itself to the publishers, who said to themselves, in so many words: "Why, things seem to be moving; let us begin to get out our new books."

Within recent years, also, the publication of the English autumn books has been creeping forward in the calendar. Once there was a time—it seems a long time ago now—when October and November were supposed to be the birth months for really good books. The book market was simpler and smaller in those days, and publishers had not to work so far ahead of time. Insensibly, almost, they began to publish their autumn harvest of literature earlier, but it was Hall Caine or Marie Corelli—I forget which—who made the great experiment of trying August for a novel.

That novel came out in the middle of the holiday season, but its entire possession of the field gave it an amount of notice and a corresponding amount of success which entirely justified the experiment. Since then it has been practically understood that the autumn novels are to begin appearing in August, to continue appearing during September, and to finish up, roughly speaking, by the first of October. With that date, the heavier literary artillery of the winter is due, for now, unless a book is out, at the latest, by the middle of November, the booksellers are apt to say: "Yes, a very interesting volume, but we really have ordered so many books that we can only take a few copies of it."

Well, that is the situation about the present publishing season in London, which promises, so far as can be judged, to be a very good one. The conditions are all favorable, but, of course, in the book trade, as in lovemaking, you never know what is going to happen. Some excursion and alarm comes along, and the best-laid plans of publishers and booksellers are scattered to the four literary winds. However, the hope is that this year nothing of the devastating sort will happen, and certainly it would be a pity, for there is a very large promise of new books. Perhaps the most distinguished one of all will be Meredith's letters, of whose quality there have been engaging samples in Scribner's Magazine.

To speak of the Meredith letters is to say that biographies and autobiographies form a very strong feature of our autumn season. Ever so many people seem to have written their reminiscences; similarly, there appear to be any number of quite interesting biographies. In most cases, however, the autobiographies and biographies are, first and foremost, British in their interest; that is to say, they have a far greater appeal to us over here than they have to you across the Atlantic. They will all be pretty bulky, for the tendency continues to issue works of this sort at a fairly high net price.

lished in limited numbers, but it has not upset the six-shilling price. That is a price which authors, publishers, libraries and, so far as they sell novels generally, booksellers have found satisfactory.

There have thus been certain influences

Chicago merchants recently combined on a "Made in Chicago" week, during which they featured in their window displays merchandise of Chicago manufacture. All the book stores utilized this general interest to exploit the publications of Chicago firms. The illustration above shows the attractive window display made by Carson, Pirie, Scott and Company for the Reilly & Britton books.

There have been suggestions from time to time that new biographies and autobiographies would make an interesting experiment if published, say, at a dollar or a dollar and a half. Perhaps they might, but not when the great customers for them in London are the circulating libraries. Publishers know that the circulating libraries will take just as many copies of a biography at three dollars as they will take of that biography at a dollar and a half. Accordingly, they hold on to this market, and the booksellers do not offer sufficient hope of such a large direct sale for those books as would justify any radical change.

I have been looking over a sheaf of the publishers' autumn lists, and I do not find that any departures are being made in regard to book prices and that sort of thing. The two-shilling novel, which was a venture of not very long ago, continues to be pub-against the progress of the two-shilling novel, and the most that can be said is that it has justified the experiment. It has come, it has been seen, it has been bought by the public up to a point, but it has not exactly conquered. There it differs from that wonderful venture—the sevenpenny reprint—which has taken England, in a reading sense, by storm. Wherever it has gone it has sold largely, with the result that now many of the publishing houses have their own series of sevenpenny reprints. In a way, this is a measure of self-defence, because they do not want cheap editions of their popular authors to be drafted away from them, say, into Nelson's great pioneer series of "sevenpennys."

Of new fiction, we are having a tremendous output, but here, again, I cannot find that any new "note" has been developed. We are having all kinds of stories, historical romances, domestic tales, social studies, novels of business in a degree, and, in a modified form, "problem" novels. No new type of story, however, no new mine of fiction, has come to the front, and, indeed, it probably never will, because fiction, after all, is only a reflection of human nature, and human nature remains very much what it was.

One thing, however, ought to be noted, and it is the growing place which the American novel is taking in the English fiction market. Once it was rather taboo, because there was a section, now rapidly passing away, of the English people who, for some reason, looked askance at American writings. They loved the great New England writers—Hawthorne, Emerson, Oliver Wendell Holmes, and the rest—but they thought, however they came to think it, that no good new literature could come out of America. Somehow I associate that tendency with the attitude of the upper classes of England towards the American Civil War.

But, anyhow, it has practically passed away, and now the American novel comes into the English market on the same footing as an English novel. American novelists can never hope to have, in England, the large circulations that some English novelists have in America; but writers like Winston Churchill, Owen Wister, Gertrude Atherton, and Edith Wharton, to go no further, have established for themselves important and increasing English publics, who value their work in a literary sense, which can only be pleasing to those authors.

Moreover, an element is arising which is giving American novelists what might be called a "pull" with English publishers. This is a demand by the British colonial readers for more and more fiction of the pioneer order, such as comes from America, rather than from an old country like England. I happened the other day to meet an English publisher, and he told me that he had sold in the British colonies 15,000 copies of your Rex Beach's latest book.

Well, that little incident shows what a good market the American novel of active achievement is obtaining out in the British colonies, especially in Australia, which is coming to look up to the American writers almost as much as to the English writers. Many American novels appeal immediately to the conditions of life in Australia; and then, Australia sees in the American Republic such a country as she herself hopes to become, which means the presence of a charming little bit of self-flattery, helpful to commerce in books.

POSTAL MATTERS.

PARCELS POST BEING ARRANGED FOR.

A SERIES of postage stamps, slightly larger than the present ones, will be used in the parcels post system. The Postmaster-General has approved of the designs and has made arrangements for engraving and printing. The new stamps will be so distinctive in color and design that there can be no confusion with those used for other classes of mail. There will be three series of designs. The first will show the methods of transporting mail, one showing a railway mail train, another an ocean mail steamship, the third one of the postal automobiles, and the fourth the despatch of mail by aeroplane. In the second series there will be shown at work the four great classes of postal employees—post office clerks, railway mail clerks, city letter carriers and rural carriers. The third series will give four industrial scenes, showing sources of products that are to be transported through the parcels post.

On September 27, Postmaster-General Hitchcock announced that he has authorized the preparation of 125,000 special maps of the United States for use in the new parcels post system. He said: "To insure absolute accuracy, because the slightest error on a map might make considerable difference in postage rates, the base map has been made similar to the one prepared by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, and pronounced by experts to be flawless. Geographical boundaries, names of States and unit numbers will be printed in black, while the zone circles and numbers will appear in red. The copper plates from which these maps will be printed will be safeguarded with the same care as are the plates used for printing money and postage stamps. The map has been projected on the interesting cone principle."

Postmasters from New York City, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, and St. Louis were in conference last week with the parcels post committee of the Post Office Department. The great problem confronting the department will be in the large cities. It is expected that the post offices in the large cities will be called on to do all the parcel delivery not only for the large department stores, but also for even the small and out-of-the-way shops. The post office charges will be lowest on small packages for short distances. This will make it profitable even for the large department stores, it is said, to take off some of their delivery wagons and let the post office deliver all packages of eleven pounds and under in the outlying suburbs and within the city proper, because the post office will do it for much less than it now costs the stores with their own wagons.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

H. B. HARVEY has resigned his position with the Reilly & Britton Co., to go into business with Williams & Cunyngham, general advertising agents, of Chicago.

COMPTON MACKENZIE has come to America to visit his publishers, D. Appleton & Company, and to superintend the production of the dramatization of "Carnival."

"IN THE VORTEX," by Clive Holland, a story of the effect of environment in the Latin Quarter of Paris on a young American artist, is just published by McBride, Nast & Co.

THE first book by Anna Preston, a young Canadian writer, is to be published in October by B. W. Huebsch. "The Record of a Silent Life" purports to be the autobiography of a woman born dumb.

PAUL FERDINANDO, French bookseller and publisher, of Paris, will issue in early October a work in French by Celestin Demblon, who expounds the theory that "Shakespeare's" plays are the work of Roger Manners, Fifth Earl of Rutland.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY, Boston, announce the publication of a new novel by a new writer, "The Cradle of the Deep: an Account of the Adventures of Eleanor Channing and John Starbuck," by Jacob Fisher. The story deals with the experiences of a Boston girl shipwrecked in the Southern Pacific.

FRANCIS LYNDE has ready another book in the spirit of his "The Taming of Red Butte Western"; this time the tale of a government engineer, of a scientific turn of mind, who turns amateur detective and unravels the mysteries besetting his friend, a railroad superintendent. "Scientific Sprague" is to be published on October 12 by the Scribners.

WE shall shortly have an opportunity of reading the work of Richard Middleton, the young English poet, who recently committed suicide at the age of twenty-nine. His two posthumous volumes, "The Ghost Ship, and Other Stories," and "Poems and Songs," will be published next month by Mitchell Kennerley.

ANOTHER of the classics, richly illustrated by Arthur Rackham, than whom there is perhaps no greater illustrator, is down for publication this fall by Doubleday, Page & Co. The new vehicle for Rackham's genius is an edition of "Æsop's Fables," which will take its place along with the other Christmas books which have been illustrated by Rackham.

"SOYER has taught us to eat not to appease hunger, but to elevate the soul," said the Times in 1847. Those in need of spiritual uplift should accordingly look for inspiration to "Soyer's Standard Cookery," just published by Sturgis & Walton Co., a complete guide to the art of cooking dainty, varied and economical dishes for the household.

THE Liebler Co. is negotiating with Louise Closser Hale for the dramatic rights to this actress-author's latest book, "Her Soul and Her Body." While Miss Hale has returned to the stage after a brief retirement, devoted to the completion of several successful books, her literary labors have not ceased. Miss Hale is now playing with Tim Murphy in "Honest Jim Blunt."

A FRUITSELLER and a little Chicago millionaire are the central figures in "Mr. Achilles," by Jeannette Lee, just published by Dodd, Mead & Co. Equally incongruous are the chief characters in Yvette Prost's "The Saving Pride"—a lonely, poor and rather homely music teacher, whose redeeming feature is her goodness, and a man of the world, whose distinguishing quality is his badness.

"THE UPAS TREE, a Christmas Story for all the Year Round," by Florence Barclay, will be published by the Putnams' early in November. "The Upas Tree" symbolizes the selfishness of a young author, whose devotion to his work makes him neglect his wife. The book must not be confused with a novel of the same name to be published shortly by F. J. Schulte & Company, of Chicago.

A YOUNG widow and a man she jilted come all unsuspecting and unexpected to visit genial Mr. Briscoe and his wife at their bungalow in the wild regions of the Great Smoky Mountains—so starts Charles Egbert Craddock's "The Ordeal," just published by Lippincott. Revenue officers and moonshiners bring about exciting situations, which do much to keep up interest and help along the love story.

PROFESSOR CHARLES A. BEARD's "American City Government; A Survey of Newer Tendencies," which the Century Co. will issue in October, aims to cover, in fairly balanced fashion, the whole field of city government, but lays chief emphasis on the city's social functions, budget making, municipal ownership, children's courts, tenement-house reforms, the social center movement, etc.

THE gift books which the Reilly & Britton Co. have ready for the Christmas season include "Mr. Perryman's Christmas Eve," by Frances S. Porcher; "Every-day Happiness," a collection of cheery quotations, attractively printed and decorated; "Love's Rosary," a collection of famous love poems, with border decorations on every page, and a holiday edition of "Miss Minerva and William Green Hill."

YOU can learn anything from books these days, even how to be clever. "That Reminds Me Again"—a sequel to "That Reminds Me"—is a compilation of good stories, which will prove useful in helping along the conversation. "The Charm of Venice," and "The Charm of London," both compiled by Alfred H. Hyatt, are attractive gift books on the Jacobs' list. The former is illustrated by Harold Sund, the latter by Yoshio Markino.

HAROLD BELL WRIGHT, author of "Their Yesterdays," was born in Rome, N. Y., but now lives on his ranch in southern California. Beginning his career as a painter and decorator, Mr. Wright passed to landscape painting, then for ten years served as minister in the Church of the Disciples, mainly preaching in Kansas and Missouri. In 1908 he retired from the ministry. Five years before that he had produced his first novel, "That Printer of Udell's," and every year he writes a novel always sure of unnumbered readers.

THE Turko-Italian war in Tripoli is the subject of an unusual work by Gustaf Janson, the Swedish novelist. "Pride of War" gives graphic studies of Italian and Arab alike, and at the same time shows the futility and tragedy of war. The book is announced for autumn publication by Little, Brown & Company, who also add to their previous announcements "The Union of South Africa," by W. Basil Worsfold; and "The Sea Trader; his Friends and Enemies," by David Hannay.

THE next Harold McGrath story has its scene laid at Como, the queen of lakes—hence its title, "The Place of Honeymoons." Other novels on the Bobbs-Merrill list include Will Irwin's "The Red Button," a mystery story, with three heroines; "The Master of Mysteries," by an anonymous writer; "The Four Men," by Hilaire Belloc; "Old Time and Young Tom," by Robert J. Burdette; and "The Elected Mother," a story of ballots and a baby, by Maria Thompson Daviess.

THE new Locke book, another diverting tale of Gallic experiences, "The Joyous Adventures of Aristide Pujol," comes from the John Lane Company. Other recent publications from this house are "The Journal of a Sporting Nomad"—experiences in Newfoundland, West Africa, Alaska and other sections of the globe, by J. T. Studley; "In Portugal," by Aubrey F. G. Bell; the "Poems" of Rosamund Marriott Watson; and "A Tragedy in Stone, and Other Papers," by Lord Redesdale, the tragedy in question being the Tower of London.

THREE rather unusual works of fiction have just come from George H. Doran Company: "Roddles," by Paul Neuman, the story of a socialistic journeyman tailor, who dreams of high achievements, and plans that his sons shall accomplish what he dreams, but reckons without his sons; "Valserine, and Other Stories," by Marguerite Andoux, author of "Marie Claire"—with all the charm of that book; and "The Keynote," by Alphonse de Chateaubriant, which won for its author the Prix Goncourt. In France the work appeared as "Monsieur Des Lourdines."

HARPER & BROTHERS have just published "Mark Twain—A Biography" (3 volumes), by Albert Bigelow Paine; "The Yates Pride," by Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman; "As Cæsar's Wife," by Margarita Spalding Gerry; "The Voice," by Margaret Deland; "For Love of Mary Ellen," by Eleanor Hoyt Brainerd; "The Honorable Miss Moonlight," by Onoto Watanna; "Paul Rundel," by Will N. Harben; "The Pictures of Polly," by Mary King Courtney; and new, artistically illustrated editions of "Pilgrim's Progress," "Gulliver's Travels," "Æsop's Fables," "Arabian Nights," and "Grimm's Fairy Tales."

LIKE "Mother," Kathleen Norris' new novel, "The Rich Mrs. Burgoyne," deals with the problems of average Americans in their social life. The story tells of the regeneration of a small California town through the advent of a woman of large means. Other recent Macmillan books are: "Deering of Deal," a boys' story, by Lotta Griswold; "Lights and Shadows of a Long Episcopate," by Rev. H. B. Whipple; "Just Before the Dawn," by R. C. Armstrong, a description of Japan before the Meiji era, the age of enlightenment; "The Spirit of French Letters," by Mabel S. C. Smith; and "The Beginner in Poultry," by C. S. Valentine.

A GENEROUS supply of books for boys has been provided this season by D. Appleton & Co., including Joseph A. Altsheler's "The Texan Star," Ralph Henry Barbour's "Change Signals," William Heyliger's "The Captain of the Nine," and "Batter Up!" and "Quarterback Reckless," by Hawley Williams. Each of these authors has a number of successful books for boys to his credit. For girls, Appleton has just published "The Fortunes of Phoebe," by Ellen Douglas Deland, author of "The Girls of Dudley School"; "The Gentle Interference of Bab," by Agnes McClelland Daulton, author of "From Sioux to Susan"; and "Nora-Square-Accounts," by Fanny Lee McKinney.

"THE STORY OF NELL GWYN," by Cecil Chesterton, the assistant editor of "The Eye-Witness" and a brother of G. K. Chesterton; "The Story of Lady Hamilton," by E. Hallam Moorhouse; "The Story of Marie Antoinette," by Francis Stickley; "Master Painters," a popular introduction to the history of art, by Stewart Dick; "The Empires of the Far East," by Lancelot Lawton, for five years the Far Eastern correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph; "Cowboy Lyrics," by Robert V. Carr; "The Poet, the Fool and the Faeries," by Madison Cawein; and "Echoes from Vagabondia," by Bliss Carman, are some of the books scheduled for autumn publication by Small, Maynard & Co.

A PRACTICAL, much-needed campaign book is compiled and published by William George Jordan, under title, "The Five National Platforms; Dissected, Classified, Indexed." It is absolutely non-partisan; classifies the subject-matter of the Democratic, Republican, Progressive, Prohibition and Socialist national platforms alphabetically, so that the views of every party on all the important issues can be found together in one place at any moment. Nothing like it has ever been attempted, and Mr. Jordan's knowledge, experience and special genius at indexing for the masses, finds full scope in its pages. Booksellers should show it during the next month. It will pay them throughout the country. The American News Co. supplies the trade.

NOVELS of decided originality and interest are to the fore in E. P. Dutton & Co.'s fall preparations. Among the newest arrivals are "The Pilgrim Kamanita," translated from the Danish by Karl Gjellerup, based on an old Buddhist legend of love enduring beyond death through other separate creations; "The Arrival of Antony," by Dorothea Congers, a jolly story of the Irish hunting country; "Paul Carah, Cornishman," by Charles Lee, said by Hildegard Hawthorne to "show humor, tenderness and insight into the heart of man"; and "The Widow Woman," by the same author, a laughable story of rural courtship. "On the Branch," Pierre de Coulevain's great success, is in its thirteenth printing, and promises to run into many more.

THE sons of George Palmer Putnam have fortunately thought that the record of his business career ought to be preserved as a contribution to the history of American publishing and of international literary relations. In 1903, George Haven Putnam brought into print a memoir of his father, prepared to preserve for his children and grandchildren a record of the chief incidents of his busy life, and an estimate based on close intimacy of his character as a man. It was intended wholly for his family, and was not given to the public. From this memoir the facts now published are taken. Mr. Putnam's pioneer work for copyright; his close relations with the literary men of his day, and a special chapter on the first battle of Bull Run, in which he took part, make the work of wide interest. It will be fully reviewed in a later issue.

FRANCIS J. SCHULTE, who, some years ago, gave a considerable impetus to book publishing of the better kind in Chicago, is again to enter this field, and announces for immediate publication a new novel by a new author—"The Upas Tree," by Robert McMurdy. The author is a prominent member of Chicago's bar, and the book is heralded as "a lawyer's novel," the principal situations being concerned with the law and legal problems, and the principal characters being lawyers. Mr. Schulte showed judgment and foresight in his former ventures, having successfully published the first fiction of such writers as Hamlin Garland, Opie Read, Ignatius Donnelly, Ambrose Bierce, Stanley Waterloo, Roswell M. Field, Le Roy Armstrong, William Armstrong, Alvah Milton Kerr, and other strong Western writers. The appearance of a new book by a new author with the Schulte imprint will therefore be looked forward to with interest by the trade, as well as by the reading public.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY's publications announced for October 5 include a Jessie Willcox Smith edition of Clement C. Moore's well-known poem, "'Twas the Night Before Christmas"; a new novel, "Forfeit," by Clara Lathrop Strong; a boy's book, "Licky and His Gang," by Grace Sartwell Mason; "Egyptian Days," by Philip S. Marden; "The Gateway of Scotland," by A. G. Bradley; "Gallant Little Wales," by Jeanette Marks; "The Best Stories to Tell to Children," by Sara Cone Bryant, whose preceding volumes on this subject have been helpful and popular; a new edition of Fiske's "Historical Works," in 11 volumes, and the first pocket edition of Bret Harte, in 19 volumes; also "The Holy Christian Church," by R. M. Johnston, a history of the Church from the beginning to the present day. Among educational books are "Readings in American Constitutional History," selected and edited by Professor Allen Johnson, of Yale University; "A Text-Book of Design," by Charles F. Kelley and William L. Mowll; Book II. of "English for Foreigners"; and a new addition to the Riverside Literature Series, "Ralph Roister Doister."

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, ORE.—The bookstore of H. J. Jones was destroyed by fire last week.

Weekly Record of New Publications

The entry is transcribed from title page when the book is sent by publisher for record. Books received, unless of minor importance, are given descriptive annotation. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Armstrong, Rob. Cornell. Just before the dawn; the life and work of Ninomiya Sontoku. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 21+273 p. D.

Devoted to the life and works of Ninomiya Sontoku, whose teachings the Japanese Government sought to introduce into its entire school system after the war with Russia. Ninomiya was the Farmer Sage of Japan. His practical deeds were in the way of developing the resources of the land, but he was also constantly setting forth by precept and example, his high ideal of life and the way to live it. "Ninomiya Sontoku is the most famous man Japan has given to the industrial world," says the author. "Every Japanese schoolboy knows him by the name of Kinjiro. He was born in 1787 in the village of Kayama, near Mount Fuji, in the Province of Sagami. He died in 1856, about a year after the second visit of Commodore Perry to Japan.

Baker, La Reine Helen. Race improvement; or, eugenics; a little book on a great subject. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 137 p. S. $1 n.

Aim of this little volume is to interest the American public in a vitally important and sadly neglected subject—eugenics. Eugenics is a word invented by Francis Galton to cover the philosophy, collection of facts, the science, which regards race-improvement as a desirable and practical process. Eugenics means the elimination of a vast deal of suffering and misery which is unnecessary, and which can be prevented. It means an answer to that cry that Ruskin heard, "rising from all our cities" that we manufacture everything there except man. It is a subject well worth the attention of every thinking man and woman, that is presented in this clear, frank book.

Bartlett, F: Orin. The lady of the lane;

il by E. C. Caswell. N. Y., Century Co. c.

'11-'12. 336 p. D. $1.25 n.

Pretty Elizabeth had been petted and spoiled and waited upon all her life, till one day her father's eyes were opened to the vast and unfortunate difference between his daughter's character and that of her dead mother when she was a young girl. So Elizabeth is sent from the stately, luxurious home on the hill, "The Towers," to her mother's early home, a quaint old homestead in the lane. Of course she rebelled—till she learned to love the new home and found an interest in living and doing things quite undreamed of in her lazy, unsatisfied days.

Bartlett, F: Orin. Whippen; il. by C: D.

Mitchell. Bost., Small, Maynard. c. 83 p.

S. 50 c. n.

Brainerd, Mrs. Eleanor Hoyt. For love of Mary Ellen; a romance of childhood; with il. by Rose Cecil O'Neill. N. Y., Harper. c. 42 p. D. 50 c. n.

Susan Randolph Peyton Carter, descendant of the bluest of blue blooded ancestors, aged six, was distressingly democratic, at least her mother thought so. When Susan, in order to help her friend Mary Ellen Rafferty, whose blood was hopelessly red, without a trace of blue, sat on the curb of a busy thoroughfare with a tomato can and a sign bearing the legend "Pity a blind widdy with six children," there seemed ground for her mother's objections, but even these were done away with in a delightful manner and Mary Ellen helped as well.

Brewster, Fs. S. Rhody. Phil., Jacobs. c. 230 p. pls. D. $1 n.

Tells of a woman's love which lasts through years of sorrow and neglect. Rhody Meserve married Joe, and for a while was very happy, but when illness comes he deserts her, returning only when things are cheerful again. She gladly takes him back, only to have him leave when the next unpleasant thing happens. His last desertion lasts thirty years, and Rhody's life and struggles are vividly depicted. Scene is New England fifty or sixty years ago.

Chic., McClurg. c. 8+195 p. (7 p. bibl.) D. $1 n.

Account of the workings of direct government in Oregon, written by a citizen of the state, who while a friend of the initiative, referendum and recall, can still see their flaws as well as strong points.

Edginton, May. The adventures of Napoleon Prince; with a front. by Cyrus Cuneo. N. Y., Cassell. c. 7+338 p. D. $1.25 n.

Napoleon Prince is a new type of gentleman criminal, a dilettante with a wonderfully keen brain; the most remarkable thing about him being that he is paralyzed and goes about in a wheeled chair. His sister, Johnny Luck, Dapper, his valet, and Gerda, the woman he loves, all have their share in his astonishing crimes.

"F. M.," pseud. Kirstie. N. Y., Crowell. c. 291 p. D. $1.25 n.

Heroine is a trained nurse, whose professional engagements bring her into close contact with a young doctor. The girl falls desperately in love with the man, but the latter, though really returning the girl's love, seeks out for himself a wealthy wife. The course of time and irony of fate take the girl as a nurse to the house of the young doctor and his wife. Years have not cooled the ardor of their passion, but, on the contrary, increased it. It is here that the real story begins, with the working out of complications due to the peculiarities of the quite oblivious wife and the entrance on the scene of another wooer of Kirstie, the nurse. Scene shifts from Chicago to Quebec and thence to Europe.

Farquhar, J. N. A primer of Hinduism. 2d ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Oxford Univ. 222 p. D. 85 c. n.

Sets forth in chronological order the history of the Old Testament and earliest apocryphal writings, presenting the orderly development of Israel's thought and its changing forms of expression from the oldest fragment of folk song to the completion of the later books of the Old Testament. Author's aim is to show vital relation between the writings and the history of the people. Index.

Fraser, Mary Crawford, ["Mrs. Hugh Fraser,"] and Stahlmann, J. I. The golden rose. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 463 p. D. $1.35 n.

Beautiful and passionate girl is married organically to the second son of the king of a little make-believe German kingdom. She goes through the ceremony hoping and believing that her marriage with the handsome and vacillating prince will be made binding. The tragedy of the situation and the desperate efforts of powerful friends to bring such pressure to bear as shall overrule fixed laws of precedence and inheritance, with their ultimate failure, make the tale.

Freeman, Mrs. Mary Eleanor Wilkins. The Yates pride; a romance. N. Y., Harper. c. '10-'12. 64 p. pls. S. 50 c. n.

Miss Eudora Yates causes all the gossips of her little town to buzz when she takes to appearing frequently, pushing a baby carriage of ancient make. Has she adopted a baby, why does it never cry, and why does she take it out so irregularly, are the questions that almost distract the sewing circle. The story, involving the answers to all these queries, has the quaintness and sweetness of a long ago romance.

Fullerton, G. Stuart. The world we live in; or, philosophy and life in the light of modern thought. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 11+293 p. O. $1.50 n.

Examines various systems of philosophy, concluding that we must "adjust ourselves seriously to what is definitely known of reality," "face life bravely," with "confidence in the Heart of the World" and "avoid the deadening extreme of bigotry and wilful blindness." By professor of philosophy, Columbia University. Index.

Gask, Lilian. The fairies and the Christmas child; the il. are by Willy Pogány. N. Y., Crowell. 260 p. O. $2 n.

Woven here into one continuous story are the elves, nymphs, brownies, pixies, and other fairy creatures of England, France, Germany and Italy, centered about a little boy who can see all these interesting personages because he was born on Christmas Day. They tell him their legends and fairy lore, as he accompanies his father from place to place in his travels. The illustrations are particularly attractive.

Genung, J: F. The man with the pitcher and his story; retold for the Christmas season. N. Y., Crowell. c. 7+92 p. front. D. 50 c. n.

Christmas story concerning the birth and childhood of Jesus. Obed is mentioned in only one place in the Gospels, when two disciples, sent ahead to the city, are directed to follow "a man bearing a pitcher." In Professor Genung's story Obed is represented as of just the same age as Christ. His father, a citizen of Bethlehem, was in the party of shepherds to whom the angel appeared with "glad tidings of great joy." Afterward, Mary and Joseph and the infant Jesus stayed in his parents' house.

Gerry, Margarita Spalding. As Cæsar's wife; a novel; il. by Ja. Montgomery Flagg. N. Y., Harper. c. 315 p. D. $1.30 n.

"Cæsar's wife should be above suspicion," and the wife in this story deserved to be, yet her husband, a man in whom elemental passion and civilized ideals wrestled like two giants, suspected her most wrongfully. Kenneth Ward is a lawyer who, as district attorney, has to prosecute the city boss. In the midst of the fight his jealousy is aroused against his best friend whom he suspects of loving his wife, and this unworthy suspicion for a time wrecks his home and almost wrecks his career as well. Before the story ends he comes to see things in their true light.

Gregory, B. C. Better schools; ed. by Ja. L. Hughes. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 11+283 p. D. $1.25 n.

Urges that "The primary aim of the school should be power development, the secondary aim, knowledge;" the child's own activity being the only means of developing power. Index.

Guerber, Hélène Adeline. Stories of Shakespeare's English history plays. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 315 p. pls. D. $1.25 n.

The stories of the plays here retold for children are Cymbeline; King John; Henry IV; Henry V; Henry VI; Richard III; Henry VIII.

Hale, Mrs. Louise Closser. Her soul and her body. N. Y., Moffat, Yard. c. 288 p. D. $1.20 n.

Story is written in the first person by a young girl who is left an orphan at a tender age. She recounts with great frankness her experiences in a provincial town of rather unhealthful atmosphere and her later trials and tribulations in Boston, where she goes with a very flat pocketbook, to study elocution and dancing. How she overcomes temptation and becomes premiere danseuse makes the tale.

Hallock, Ella B. Introduction to Browning; including eleven poems with hints for study. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 131 p. por. D. 75 c. n.

Method is, first, to quote the poem and then to follow with a number of suggestive questions which, while they do not in so many words explain a passage, guide the reader's thought in such a way that with little difficulty he will get the poet's real meaning and, more than that, the feeling, which is so essential a part of an understanding of verse.

Hamilton, Mary Agnes. Greek legends. N. Y., Oxford Univ. 192 p. pls. D. 50 c. n.

Contents: Gods and heroes; Theseus; Story of Thebes; Perseus; Heracles; The Argonauts; Meleager; Bellerophon; Trojan war; House of Atreus; Wanderings of Odysseus. Index.

Harben, W: Nathaniel. Paul Rundel; a novel. N. Y., Harper. c. 411 p. D. $1.30 n.

Author of "Dixie Hart," etc., tells another Georgian story. Paul Rundel, a boy, when the story begins, is in danger of having his character ruined by poverty and bitterness. His father, a discouraged semi-invalid, his mother, vain, pleasure-loving, despises her husband and is flattered by the attentions of young Jeff Warren. The father dies of a broken heart; Paul waylays Warren, shoots him, as he thinks, fatally. He flees and remains away seven years, but his conscience forces him to return. He finds Warren is alive and has another encounter with him, the outcome of which, as well as a satisfactory love story, bring the book to a climax.

Hartley, Catharine Gascoigne, [Mrs. Wa. McGallichan.] Spain revisited; a summer holiday in Galicia; with colored front. and 57 il. in half-tone. N. Y., Pott. 330 p. O. $2.50 n., bxd.

Recounts entertainingly the author's experiences and impressions during a sojourn in Galicia, the mountainous and beautiful northern kingdom of Spain, which is still comparatively unexplored. Index.

Lee, Jennette, [Mrs. Gerald Stanley Lee, formerly Jeannette Barbour Perry.] Mr. Achilles. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 261 p. D. $1 n.

The Greek who left Athens to sell fruit in this country and incidentally tell Americans about the beauties of the Parthenon and the Acropolis is a pathetic figure indeed, in Chicago, until he meets little Miss Harris, heiress to the cattle on a thousand hills—or heiress to some acres of stock yards, which is the Chicago equivalent. The friendship between the beauty-loving Greek, heir to the age of Pericles, and the little girl who is hungry for beauty makes a sweet and touching story.

Lindsay, Lady, comp. About robins; songs, facts and legends; il. by Lady Lindsay. N. Y., Warne. 111 p. Q. bds., $1 n.

Book for children, containing verses, songs, legends and facts about robins.

Locke, W. J. The joyous adventures of Aristide Pujol; il. by Alec Ball. N. Y., J. Lane. c. 11-12. 325 p. D. $1.30 n.

Aristide Pujol is a Provençal whose quicksilver disposition causes him to fall in and out of love with the ease and celerity with which he makes friends. He is always joyous and entertaining, whether he is escaping from an undesirable bride, uniting a jealous husband and innocent wife, or adopting a small boy. At last his amorous adventures end in a happy marriage.

London, Jack. Smoke Bellew; il. by P. J. Monahan. N. Y., Century Co. c. 385 p. D. $1.30 n.

Christopher Bellew starts life handicapped by the training of an over-fond mother. A severely disapproving uncle takes him to the Klondike, and then Christopher finds his muscles and a new meaning to life. The fortune he makes in gold nuggets is only a small part of the story. He wins the nickname of Smoke, and finds a partner in Shorty, and the two become known the length and breadth of the Klondike for their wild daring and their seemingly phenomenal luck. There is even the love of woman in those frozen wilds, a love born of real comradeship such as men and women of the world of civilization seldom know.

Lucas, E. Verrall. London lavender; an entertainment. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 14+ 295 p. D. $1.85 n.

Story told in the first person by a middle-aged, detached man who, on a walking tour, comes upon an inn so attractive in appearance that he decides to miss the train that was to take him back to London and sleep there that night. As it happens, he stays for several years. How this comes about and what takes place in the years is delightfully chronicled.

McCutcheon, G. Barr. The hollow of her hand; with il. by A. I. Keller. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 5+422 p. col. pls. D. $1.30 n.

Appeared serially in Munsey's Magazine. Sara Wrاندall's husband is murdered at a lonely country inn, where he had taken a young girl, who disappears before the body is discovered. Circumstances bring the two women together and they become devoted friends in spite of the secret they share. Wrاندall's family had always disapproved of his wife and the circumstances of his death give her the power to crush them utterly if she so desires. How she at first works for revenge but in the end is actuated by nobler motives makes the story.

Macgowan, Rev. J. Men and manners of modern China; with 38 illustrations. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. 351 p. O. $3.50 n.

Having lived and worked for fifty years in China, and being convinced that, once understood, the Chinese are a lovable and great people, the writer sets out to interpret them to the Western world. Lawyers and laws, doctoring and doctors, scholars and schools, homes, municipalities, temples, jails—all the varied strange and picturesque aspects of Chinese life are sympathetically discussed. Index.

McKinney, Fanny Lee. Nora-square-accounts. N. Y., Appleton. 335 p. pls. D. $1.50.

Story of a brave motherless little girl upon whom devolves the care of a younger brother and sister. Their father is an inventor, careless and impecunious, who is defrauded out of one of his patents by a rich manufacturer. Through Nora this misfortune is changed into cause for rejoicing.

McLaren, Amy. With the merry Austrians. N. Y., Putnam. 4+356 p. D. $1.25 n.

Author of "Bawbee Jock" leaves Scotland in this story and tells a tale of a young English widow among some light hearted Austrian army people. The Tyrol is the setting and a Wasser Kur the immediate scene of action. How the pretty widow finds happiness for herself, and her little boy comes into his rightful heritage, and the part played by an officious Jewess, a jealous baroness, and a delightful young Austrian and his sister make up the incidents.

McLaughlin, Rob. W. Washington and Lincoln, leaders of the nation in the constitutional eras of American history. N. Y., Putnam, c. 9+278 p. pors. D. $1.35 n.

Point of departure in this book is the assumption that Washington and Lincoln are related. The aim of the writer is to show that this relation is not, as generally supposed, conditioned upon certain traits of character possessed by both, but is more fundamental, and is found in the similarity of the work they did in the field of governmental action. To accomplish this aim, the method used is a blending of the philosophical and biographical, with the emphasis upon the philosophical. It is a discussion of the central problem of constitutional government, a problem uppermost in the minds of people to-day, namely, that of power in its derivation, expression and abuse. Index.

Mathews, Frances Aymar. A Christmas honeymoon; il. in color by Herb. Bohnert. N. Y., Moffat, Yard. c. 151 p. D. $1 n.

Tale begins in Washington, before the Civil War, and ends in New York some thirty years later. Betty Revere marries Peter Van Zandt and comes to New York to live in his Washington Square house. They have been there but a few weeks when she discovers that he has been the violin player she has execrated before marriage, declaring she could never stand a music-making husband. From this small beginning arises a misunderstanding of nearly thirty years' duration, which is healed by a little child.

Napier, Rosamond. Tamsie. N. Y., Doran. c. 503 p. D. $1.35 n.

This is a story of gypsies, for while Tamsie, the heroine, and David Guest, the hero, are not Romanics, still their lives are influenced strongly by the wanderers. Tamsie comes to live on the moors and stumbles on the Stag-fellow, a gentleman in disguise, who lives in hiding in the camp. She grows curious as to why he is hiding, and so her love adventures commence. Incidentally the reader learns much of gypsy lore and customs.

Newte, Horace W. C. Pansy Meares; the story of a London shop girl. N. Y., J. Lane. c. 383 p. D. $1.30, fixed.

Relates the experience of a type who tire of the monotony of rural life and long for the excitement of the busy metropolis. The heroine meets with the perils which usually confront the unsophisticated country girl endeavoring to make her way alone in the city, but fortunately in the end is brought to a realizing sense of the true worth and nobility of her rural boy lover, whose devotion is finally rewarded. By author of "The Ealing miracle."

Phelps, W. Lyon. Teaching in school and college. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 11+186 p. D. $1 n.

By author of "Essays on modern novelists." Book is absolutely practical and definite, containing no scientific terminology and being full of specific application. The occasional reminiscences give point and emphasis to the ideas set forth. It is a manual of teaching from only one point of view—human nature. The chapter titles are as follows: Introductory; School teaching and discipline; Private school teaching and scholarship; The efficiency of college teaching; Imagination in teaching; Education and instruction; English composition; English pronunciation; Teaching English literature; The religious aspect of teaching.

Phillips, D. Graham. George Helm. N. Y., Appleton. c. 303 p. D. $1.30 n.

Book was entirely completed by Mr. Phillips and delivered to a magazine for serialization before his death. It is the story of a rawboned, energetic, honest Middle Westerner, who forces himself into political positions by his fearlessness, integrity and wonderful personality. In spite of the bosses of both parties, who oppose him, he rises from a minor political position to be Governor of his State. His love affair with the daughter of a slick millionaire provides a romance and a complicated plot as well. Some of the characters who figured in Mr. Phillips' earlier book, "The plum tree," reappear in this story.

Prichard, Mrs. Kate O'Brien Hesketh- and Hesketh Vernon Hesketh-. The Cahusac mystery. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 6+340 p. D. $1.25 n.

The motive lies in a son's desire to clear the memory of his murdered father from the charge of selling diplomatic secrets to foreign political agents and to discover the murderer. Malcolm Cahusac gropes blindly to find the criminal, who in turn sets about ruining the young man. A charming American widow plays an important part and she and Malcolm are happy together after the mystery has been cleared up.

Prost, Yvette. The saving pride; tr. from the French by Fk. Alvah Dearborn. il. by Jos. Cummings Chase. N. Y., Dodd, Mead, 11. c. 333 p. D. $1.25 n.

Story of a lonely, rather homely, poor and friendless music teacher, whose redeeming feature was her goodness, and a man of the world whose most marked characteristic was his badness. How goodness sometimes works on badness even in this naughty world, and by what unselfishness and devotion Marie, the little music teacher, rewarded her best friend and set her lover on the right path make a story of pathos and heart interest.

Radhakrishnan, S. Essentials of psychology. N. Y., Oxford Univ. 75 p. S. 55 c. n. Author is assistant professor of philosophy, Presidency College, Madras.

Stanley, Caroline Abbot. The First Church's Christmas barrel; il. by Gayle Porter Hoskins. N. Y., Crowell. c. '10-'12. 71 p. front. D. 50 c. n.

Very likely there are few church societies that will plead guilty to the fault of the "First Church" in the story, of sending out a missionary barrel filled with cast-off, worthless clothes; nor find themselves in the difficult position of receiving it back again by return freight, with the righteous indignation of the missionary's wife expressed in delightfully appropriate Scripture texts pinned to the various old shoes, Leghorn hats, and moth-eaten opera-cloaks. But we all like an occasional laugh at the expense of some neighbor, and we can all imagine churches which might have committed such an offence.

Tells the story of a young girl's development from childish dreamland to the coming of love. "Mary Makebelieve" is the daughter of a Dublin charwoman, whose imagination is as vivid as her heart is warm, and who fills the girl's mind with thoughts of the fairy prince who will surely come. It is a delightful picture of a maiden just coming to womanhood.

Stephenson, And. A history of Roman law; with a commentary on the institutes of Gaius and Justinian. Bost., Little, Brown. c. 18+513 p. O. $3. n.

Aim is to place in the hands of the student of history or law a volume which will contain a clear account of the history of Roman legal institutions throughout the various stages of their growth until they ripen into that perfected body of law, the Corpus Juris Civilis. Enough of Roman history is narrated to explain this legal evolution, and the more important laws, as they pass in their perfected form through the hands of Gaius and Justinian, are given with notes and commentary. Author is professor of history, De Pauw University. Index.

Treatise dealing with the political unity and future of the British Empire. Author says, "The day must come when the great British communities must realize the inferiority and disadvantage of their colonial status, and will demand to become partners with their motherland in a British Federation. Thus we shall have a British Empire that will share with that other great Anglo-Saxon community, the United States, the magnificent task of guiding the destiny and peace of the world." Index.

Studley, J. T. The journal of a sporting nomad; with 39 illustrations. N. Y., J: Lane. 16+303 p. O. $3.50 n.

Author's sporting trips led him to Newfoundland; West Africa; Spitzbergen, where he had interesting balloon experiences; to Alaska, where he hunted grizzlies; to Iceland and many other remote parts of the world. Book, besides describing the sport in these places, will prove useful as a guide to prospective travelers in these regions. Index.

Taylor (The) and the crow; an old rhyme with new drawings by L. Leslie Brooke. N. Y., Warne, '11. c. no paging, D. $1 n.

Thomas, E: Norse tales. N. Y., Oxford Univ. 159 p. D. 50 c. n.

Contents Making of the worlds, of gods and of giants; Heaven and earth; Gods, dwarfs and elves; Odin and Valhalla, Balder and Loki; Loki, and the horse and the ship; Thor; Thor's defeat; Thor's victories; Gods and goddesses; Apples of youth and the day of doom; Story of Sigmund; Story of Helgi; Story of Sigurd.

Thurston, Ernest Temple. The "Flower of Gloster"; il. by W. R. Dakin. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 10+244 p. il. O. $2.50 n.

Mr. Thurston hesitated some time between the attractions of a walking trip in Italy and a tour through English inland waterways in a barge. He chose the latter and wrote a book about it. We glide quietly, dreamily, restfully, through lovely English Midlands in the loveliest time of year—midsummer. The purple smoke of thatched cottages against the evening glow; the morning mists lifting from dew drenched meadows; the gossip of the laborers on the bench outside the inn; the life along the waterways—fishermen, bargees, farmers—all these are described. By the author of "The city of beautiful nonsense."

Tyrrell, H: Shenandoah; love and war in the valley of Virginia, 1861-5; based upon the famous play by Bronson Howard; il. by Harry A. Ogden and others. N. Y., Putnam. c. 7+389 p. D. $1.35 n.

Play on which story is based had a successful run of several seasons. It is concerned with the Civil War and the love affairs of a Southern girl and her brother with a Northern man and his sister, whom the war first separates, then unites after thrilling adventures.

Valentine, Carrie Syron. The beginner in poultry; the zest and the profit in poultry growing. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 10+450 p. il. D. $1.50 n.

Discusses the different breeds of fowl, the types of houses, feeding and the kinds of food, raising chickens for the market and for their eggs, diseases and their cure and everything else which will be of value for the one who is starting out—and much for the seasoned poultry raiser as well. Index.

Ven der Veer, Lenore. Wayfarers. N. Y., Putnam. 62 p. D. 50 c. n.

Written by an English woman staying in an Alpine sanitarium for consumptives. The wayfarers are the patients gathered there. The Russian exile, the young American woman, the French widow, the Italian youth and the lovely English girl, are all vivid living pictures, though briefly described.

Wagner, Wilhelm Ri.hard. The master-singers of Nuremberg (Die meistersinger von Nürnberg); a dramatic poem freely tr. in poetic narrative form by Oliver Huckel. N. Y., Crowell. c. 22+127 p. front. D. 75 c. n.

Watson, Rosamund Marriott. The poems of Rosamund Marriott Watson. N. Y., J. Lane. 19+334 p. D. $1.50 n.

Wayne, Kenneth H. Building the young man. Chic., McClurg. c. 174 p. S. 50 c. n.

Author of "Building your boy" and "Building your girl," here gives a little chart of life for the young man of eighteen or twenty who wishes to make the best kind of a voyage through the years. He writes from a wide experience, and discusses many of the difficulties to be faced in the business world and in dealing with others, as well as discussing the problems of the best personal living.

Webster, Jean. Daddy-long-legs; with il. by the author. N. Y., Century Co. c. 304 p. D. $1 n.

By author of "When Patty went to college." Story is told in the form of a young girl's letters to her unknown guardian, and the illustrations are the author's own, just as if scribbled in pen and ink on the margins of letters to an intimate friend.

Wells, Carolyn. Marjorie at Seacote; il. by Herb. F. Rohnert. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 288 p. D. (Marjorie books.) $1.25.

Marjorie's summer by the sea with all the fun and good times she had there, is the subject of this new Marjorie book.

Wells, Herb. G. Marriage. N. Y., Duffield. c. 529 p. D. $1.35 n.

Heroine is a quite charming girl with a disposition to spend money freely. She falls in love in time to escape a mercenary marriage into which her family is disposed to force her, marries the man she loves romantically and defiantly—and then ruins him. Things rise from the ruins again. The setting is arranged to contrast the old, sober life of nineteenth-century tradition with the new, more voracious, extravagant, and adventurous phase into which the world is going. There is a lot about spending—that universally interesting theme, but the end is happy.

Wheeler, Harold Felix Baker. The boy's Nelson. N. Y., Crowell. 256 p. pls. O. $1.50 n.

Story is told of the hero's boyhood and school days, of the happy chance by which, at the age of twelve, he became a midshipman, and of his advance, step by step, to the position of admiral. There are graphic descriptions of naval engagements, and the impartial account of the admiral's experiences at the Neapolitan court and his intimacy with the beautiful Lady Hamilton. Volume closes with the dearly bought victory of Trafalgar and Nelson's death.

Whipple, Bp. H: B:, D.D. Lights and shadows of a long episcopate, being reminiscences and recollections; with portrait of author and other illustrations. [New ed.] N. Y., Macmillan. c. '99-'12. 6+576 p. D. $2 n.

Bishop of Minnesota's picturesque record of his work among Indians since 1859.

White, C: E., jr. Successful houses and how to build them; drawings by the author. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 6+520 p. D. $2 n.

The various building materials, arrangement of rooms, the systems of heating, lighting and ventilating best adapted for city, town, country and farm houses are discussed. With chapters on terraces, side-walks and pergolas. All treated from the standpoint of the house owner. Index.

Williams, Hawley. Batter up! N. Y., Appleton. c. 302 p. pls. D. $1.25.

Story for boys telling of how Chester Lane loses his place on the Varsity nine and is called a coward, because he appears to be afraid of the rival pitcher.

Quarterback reckless. N. Y., Appleton. c. 239 p. pls. D. $1.25.

Lansing Academy is the scene of this story as well as of "Batter-up." The rivalry between "Ches" Lane and "Tilly" Scott for the position of quarterback is the theme.

Winget, D. H. Anecdotes of Buffalo Bill which have never before appeared in print. Clinton, O., Merry War. 224 p. pors. D. 50 c.; leath., $2.

Book is written by an Iowan, editor of The Merry War, and an old friend of Colonel Cody.

Wollaston, A. F. R. Pygmies and Papuans; the stone age of to-day in Dutch New Guinea; with appendices by W. R. Ogilvie-Grant and others; with il. and maps. N. Y., Sturgis & W. 24+352 p. O. $4 n.

Account of a scientific expedition made in 1911 under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society and the Ornithologist Union to the Snow Mountains of Dutch New Guinea. The country visited was quite unknown to Europeans, the native races living in a most primitive state; in fact, the pygmies described are one of the most primitive people now in existence. The illustrations are from photographs taken on the expedition. Index.

Woods, Rev. C: Coke. The reasonable religion. Cin., Jennings & G. c. 104 p. S. 50 c.

Addresses which seek to show that the essential teachings of the Christian religion are supremely reasonable.

Quarter page.....	7 00
Eighth page.....	4 00
One-sixteenth page.....	2 00

The above rates are for unspecified positions. Special rates for preferred position (full pages only).

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier, if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday noon.

Under the heading "BOOKS WANTED" booktrade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for specific books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, unspecified wants, repeated matter, and all advertisements from nonsubscribers cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privilege of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "BOOKS FOR SALE" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

"A steady seller without end."

A photogravure reproduction, 18 x 14 inches, copy-right secured, of the first portrait from life of Abraham Lincoln. It is virtually unknown. Sketched by Charles A. Barry, of Boston, in June, 1860, at Springfield, Ill. Approval of the likeness was given by such contemporaries: John Wood, Gov. of the State (Ill.); S. A. Sutton, Mayor of Springfield (Ill.); William Butler, State Treasurer (Ill.); Hon. John Wentworth, Mayor of Chicago, and sixty others. To-day Mr. Theodore N. Vail, Pres. Am. Bell Tel. Co.; General Daniel E. Sickles, U. S. A., retired, and many others prominent in the financial and commercial world have paid exceptional tribute to this portrait. Book-sellers who have never handled prints are especially urged to try it. Price $3, one-third off to the trade. Carriage prepaid.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in SEPTEMBER, 1912

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; F: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look hereafter under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i.e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

THE ORDEAL

By

$1.20 net ; postpaid $1.32.

An impassioned romance of a man who conquers self, and who by his chivalrous devotion passes through an ordeal to happiness. The author touches on all the elemental human passions—there is the jealousy and hatred of strong men, a mother's love for her child, the consecrated ardour of a great nature, and finally tender human love.

The developments of the plot are as exciting as those of the best detective story.

This is unquestionably the finest and most characteristic novel, by this author, of the Great Smoky Mountain Region and people.

The Lady Doc is enjoying a large practice. Her treatment is pleasing thousands.

2nd Large Edition on Press.
